Dear Arthur:

Again, this year, I have accepted the Chairmanship of the Light-A-Life Christmas on the Common fund raising effort. I have chaired this activity since 1982. I would like to ask you to join me in supporting the program in 1990.

This year the program is being expanded. Not only will we be insuring that the Common is lit for the holiday season, but we will be raising money to support the Trinity Hospice of Greater Boston. In recognition of this, the campaign will be known as Light-A-Life. Fifty percent of the funds raised will go toward the Hospice organization.

The Trinity Hospice program provides medical nursing, psychological and spiritual care to the dying - at home, in familiar surroundings, in the presence of loved ones. This vital program has helped many families in the Boston area and deserves our support during the holiday season.

We invite you and your organization to celebrate the holiday season with a gift that will light lives throughout the city of Boston this year, by joining one of the following categories of contribution:

Sponsor - $1,000 Supporter - $500 Contributor - $250

The enclosed response card details what you will receive in acknowledgement of your contribution.

If you are able to make your commitment soon, you will be invited to a kick-off press reception at the Parkman House with Mayor Flynn to be held Thursday, November 15th. Please use the enclosed response card to indicate your level of support, or you can call my office at 617-227-9600, ask for Joanne DeVoe.

Please join us again this year in supporting both important projects -lighting the lights on the Boston Common and the Trinity Hospice of Greater Boston. This will be a great two-for-one program.

Wishing you the best in the upcoming holiday season, I am

Arthur Osborne, President

recd 11.15.90

Dear Brother Osborne,

On Friday, November 16, 1990 Victor Reuther, a founder of the United Automobile Workers, will be speaking in Boston at the Park Plaza Hotel. Victor will be accompanied by his wife Sophie, the first woman organizer hired by the U.A.W. As you may know, the Reuthers came out of retirement several years ago to help build the UAW's first oppositional caucus in over forty years -- The New Directions Movement.

Also speaking that evening will be Meizhu Lui, President of AFSCME Local 1489. Both Sister Lui and Brother Reuther will speak on the tasks of rebuilding our troubled labor movement.

The evening's talk is sponsored by the Region 9A New Directions Movement and is endorsed by other local union activists.

New Directions cordially invites you and all members of the AFL-CIO Executive Board to attend this unique event.

I have enclosed several fliers which go into more detail about the evening and the New Directions Movement.

Fraternally,

Charlie Allen

The Boston area has a unique opportunity to spend an evening with Victor Reuther, a founder of the UAW. Victor was one of the organizers of the great GM Flint sitdown strike to 1936. His voice over the sound truck mobilized and inspired strikers and their supporters throughout the bitter strike. Sophie Reuther was organizing in Indiana during the sit downs of 1936-37. She was the first woman organizer hired by the UAW. Together they worked to build the UAW over the next several decades until retirement.

The decline of the UAW, once the proud flagship of the CIO and social unionism, drew the Reuthers out of retirement and into actively building the New Directions Movement in the UAW. Today Victor is the retiree representative on the National New Directions Organizing Committee.

New Directions is the name of the national opposition caucus within the UAW. The caucus was formed after more than a decade of concessions, lack of democracy, and the union's collaboration with corporate plant closings, outsourcing, and speed-up. It is led by Jerry Tucker, a former International Executive Board member, and a 20 member National Organizing Committee representing all segments of the UAW (office, aerospace, parts, GM, Ford, & Chrysler).

This evening is a rare opportunity for everyone involved in today's union movement. There are few people around today who have Victor's experience of building a democratic union under the difficult conditions of the 1930s. He's not coming to just reminisce though, he will relate the lessons of building the CIO in the 30s to our struggle of rebuilding a crumbling labor movement in the 90's. Victor will also speak about the role of UAW New Directions in the larger effort to rebuild U.S. labor.

Dear Mr. Osborne:

Boston, MA 02114

(617) 720-6646

Back to school time signals a change of season and a surge of activity. New teachers, new classmates, busy days and hectic schedules.

Going back to school this year is especially eventful for Rondele, or as his friends call him, "Punky" Miller. Last year he missed his school year. In August of 1989, 7 year old Punky was hit by a car while fishing on the side of the road. He suffered a head injury and serious damage to his neurological system. He lay unresponsive during his first 3 weeks of hospitalization. Slowly, he began responding to verbal commands and started to recognize friends and family. Punky was transferred to Spaulding Rehabilitation Hospital for intensive rehabilitation. He worked long and hard with a team of therapists, nurses, and physicians at Spaulding to get better. He made tremendous gains and won the hearts of the hospital staff with his lovable nature and contagious smile.

Helen B. Spaulding
Trustee

Ten months after his accident and on his eighth birthday, Punky went home. For those who met Punky when he first came to Spaulding, his story is a miracle. Although at times his daily progress seemed slight and the road to recovery seemed long, each improvement soon added up. Punky left the hospital able to feed and dress himself and walk with assistance.

Today, Punky rides the bus to the Quincy School in Boston and sits along side of his classmates in reading group. He works on the classroom computer and draws during art class. Punky receives physical and speech therapy at school and continues to improve.

We are tremendously thankful for Punky's strong recovery. We are also deeply grateful to you for your past support of the work and mission of the hospital. I hope you will continue your support by sending your contribution to the SRH Fund. Gifts of every size play an essential role in caring for future patients. In fact, they make the difference.

With warm wishes, I am,

Most sincerely yours,

Rondele Miller is eight years old.

But he has the courage of any man.

LAST YEAR, Rondele "Punky" Miller was hit by a car. For weeks he fought for his life in a hospital intensive care unit. Then, against the odds, he rallied to the point where he could be transferred to Spaulding Hospital.

Rondele is a remarkable person. He easily could have given in to the severe neurological injuries he'd suffered. Yet, during the months he worked with a team of Spaulding physicians and therapists, his cheerfulness and strength never flagged. And today, he is back in school, on his way toward a promising future.

We all know someone who, struck down by illness or injury, has struggled to regain a normal life. Spaulding Hospital is there to help them. We hope you will help them too, by making a gift to the SRH Fund.

Dear Trade Unionist:

Enclosed is the announcement for the 1990 Labor/Higher Education Council meeting, November 28-29, 1990, at the Sheraton Boston Hotel. The AFL-CIO is host for this year's program, in cooperation with the Massachusetts AFL-CIO and the Harvard Trade Union Program.

As you know, the Council is a joint venture of the AFL-CIO and the American Council on Education. Our program this year focuses on health care reform and gives us an opportunity to share our concerns with the leadership of American higher education.

Len Oliver and the Steering Committee have put together an excellent program. We now need your support and participation to assure a successful meeting. I encourage you to attend or, if that is not possible, to delegate your next senior elected officer.

The Council has succeeded in creating more dialogue between our unions and institutions of higher education. This year, the Council initiated a series of state meetings which hold great promise for increased cooperation and understanding at the local level. The Council's work is important to labor's continual outreach to the campus. We count on your support, and we hope you can join us in Boston.

With thanks,

Sincerely and fraternally,

Secretary-Treasurer

The Council's National Meeting

The Labor/Higher Education Council's 1990 National Meeting is the seventh in the series. The meeting attracts 50-75 senior union officials and college and university presidents and chancellors. Based on experience, the Council has found the one-day, noon-to-noon format convenient for labor and higher education leaders wishing to attend.

The National Meeting encompasses a range of activities—al designed to further the dialogue between these two major sectors. Formal presentations, panels, small group discussions, and informal gatherings enable participants to learn more about an important national issue, contribute their ideas, share viewpoints, and create new understandings that come from face-to-face exchanges.

The 1990 meeting, hosted by the AFL-CIO, centers on the issue of national health care reform. The Council has taken on a critical national issue as the focus for the annual meeting. The presentations by nationally-recognized leaders in the field, the panel of labor and higher education leaders who have to deal with the issue daily, and above all, the participant work groups will explore the dimensions of the health care issue. The Council will publish the findings in a nationally-circulated report.

We welcome your contribution to the Council's dialogue and hope you will join us for the national meeting at the Sheraton-Boston Hotel & Towers in late November.

ADJOURN

The Labor Higher Education Council

Leaders in the American Council on Education and the AFL-CIO agreed in 1983 to form the Labor/Higher Education Council to further dialogue and understanding between these two major segments of American society. It is the only organization of its kind at the national level with the sole purpose of bringing the leadership of international unions and state AFL-CIO federations together with the presidents and chancellors who lead our colleges and universities.

COUNCIL OBJECTIVES

1. To advance mutual understanding between the American labor movement and American higher education by serving as a forum for ideas and contacts and through exchanges at periodic meetings.
2. To affirm common positions of the American labor movement and American higher education on national problems and matters of mutual interest, and —when appropriate—to engage in coordinated activity in their support.
3. To facilitate understanding on the nation's college and university campuses of the character of work in America and the American labor movement; similarly, to facilitate understanding within the labor movement of the purposes and practices of colleges and universities in American society.
4. To determine ways colleges and universities can improve their educational programs to meet the needs of the labor movement, and ways the labor movement can be supportive of the goals of higher education.

COUNCIL ACTIVITIES

National Meetings and Proceedings—The Council meets annually in late fall at various sites, and publishes the proceedings from these meetings. Between meetings, the Council is guided by a Steering Committee and the senior leadership of ACE and the AFL-CIO.

State Labor-Higher Education Dialogues—Council members and affiliates sponsored a series of pilot state dialogues in 1990 where statewide issues and concerns could be discussed informally. These dialogues will be expanded in 1991.

National Survey—The Council has an ongoing survey of state labor-higher education cooperation and programs, and will continue to add to these findings.

National Meeting Highlights

- Hear featured speakers Robert Blendon of Harvard and Stuart Altman of Brandeis, both leading experts on health care reform, provide their data and insights on this pressing national issue.
- Meet and hear from senior labor leaders like Tom Donahue, John Sweeney, Gerald McEntee, Lenore Miller, and Jack Sheinkman who have a special concern from the union perspective on the health care issue. Similarly, we will have representatives from state universities and colleges, the largest urban university in the country, and the community colleges with the participation of Joseph Duffey, W. Ann Reynolds, Ronald Beller, and Edward Liston who face the health care issue from the perspective of their institutions.
- Participate in intensive, candid discussions of the values behind the solutions as we search for common ground in a labor-higher education approach to national health care reform.
- Other highlights include remarks from John Dunlop, an old friend of the Council, informal socializing, and a joint legislative update from the ACE and the AFL-CIO on where we stand on health care reform in the Congress.
- Through your participation, you will also have an opportunity to provide direction for the Council as it expands its activities.
